What i want to do, is when i add the video, it should be searched online and if online is not available, it should show the message "The video is not available". what i wrote so far is as follows.

EDIT #1 if(!in_array($_GET['video'], $valid)){ $errorMsg = "alert('The video you selected is not available');"; $valid= false; } $valid is an array.

what i want is, when the video is not available, it should show the error message and the $valid should be changed to false. what i did here is, if the video is not in the $valid array, it should show the error message. i know the if statement is wrong, it needs to be changed but i can't figure it out. this is the code so far i used `if(!in_array($_GET['video'], $valid)){ $errorMsg = "alert('The video you selected is not available');"; $valid= false; } A:`

There are two major issues with your code: if the video is not available, it should show the error message and the $valid should be changed to false
Your current code will always show the alert, even if the video is available. You need to set $valid back to true after the alert. You are using a JavaScript alert, which will display the message on the page you are visiting. You need to use a redirect in the `$valid = false;` line to redirect to another page. using `in_array($_GET['video'], $valid)` is not the right way to check if a value is in an array. In PHP, you should use the `===` operator: if `($_GET['video'] === $valid) {`
