There is even a type of professional Photoshop training that lets people teach others how to use Photoshop to their own advantage. Photoshop, of course, can only do a lot of things. There is a new application, Sketch, which is a free image editor for beginners who are just getting started. It is similar to many other basic image editors, but with a simple user interface and fewer options to get lost in. Sketch can be downloaded from the Adobe website. The first time you run the program it may ask you to sign in to an Adobe ID. After signing in and navigating to the "Sketch" menu, Sketch opens and loads a document and allows you to start drawing. But Sketch is still lacking functionality that some people need in a more advanced image editor. Luckily, there is an open source alternative, GIMP, with a lot of power to it. While a lot of people see GIMP as the image editing equivalent to Photoshop, it is actually much more. Sketch is a better beginner's tool, GIMP is an incredible professional tool. While no one would try to compare the two in terms of power and abilities, Sketch is the more user friendly of the two. Drawing on the canvas within Sketch Because Sketch is a very simple image editor, there is not much to do besides draw. It is important to note that Sketch does allow you to draw in vector-based, which is a pre-calculated path of what your canvas will look like. In theory, the picture you draw here will look exactly the same in Sketch as it will in Photoshop or any other editor. You can also draw in bitmap, which is a raster image. A raster image represents a pixel array. This is used by your graphics software when it renders the picture to your monitor. You can only draw or fill in an area, which is similar to a picture or photo frame in other editors, and you can only color what you draw with a color palette or by choosing from a limited list of colors. Sketch can also change your canvas size and crop a portion of a picture to draw in. It also has shortcut keys to control the drawing tools. When you are done with your sketch, you can save the image by clicking the Save As button on the top left corner of the window or by pressing Ctrl+S (Windows) or Cmd+S (Mac), which saves the image to your default file folder in

Pages Wednesday, June 18, 2016 Fun in the Sun at Madison's Great Lawn Summer is here! The kids and I have been enjoying life outside and being adventurous. This past weekend, we had a few glorious days where the sun was shining and the grass was green. Don't get me wrong, we love having a warm day and playing outside, but sometimes we need an excuse to get dirty and run around in the grass! The great lawn at Madison's Great Lawn has lots of fun for kids of all ages. There is no fee to come and play on the grass and many of the activities are free! It may be a little dusty, but my kids have loved running around on the grass and eating a silly lunch. Here is a list of our favorite activities at the Great Lawn: -Squirrel Run: This is a large grassy area where kids can run around and go nuts as well. It is safe and big enough to run around and play safely. -Penny-Pinch: Penny Pinch is a game where kids climb up a rope and grab a penny from the top and scramble down. The idea is to grab a penny before your feet hit the ground. This is a fast, fun, and free game. -Moochie Farm: Now, this may be geared for kids ages 4-6 years old. We have been playing at Moochie Farm for about 4 years now and my son is now 4 years old, which means he has been coming here for a long time! It is a fun area where kids can run around and play with a Moochie toy to get down. It is safe and free to play on. The facility is filled with nature items to touch and look at. When my kids were younger, we would give them a brown bucket and a Moochie toy and let them explore for a while. -Farm 2-6: Kids ages 3-6 can run around and collect farm items that they find, such as a bale of hay, a wheelbarrow, a tractor, sheep, or a cow. -WaterPlay: This is a cool area where kids can play in a large area filled with water and watch rain drops fall. When my kids were younger, we would let them sit in a plastic wading pool and watch the water fall from above. They would laugh and enjoy exploring the water while watching things like rain drops fall. This is a great way
