Interview: A Month of Mondays with Adriana Peniche A few years ago I was introduced to the charming and positive blogger, Adriana Peniche. I can remember hearing about her at BlogHer New York in 2010 and finding her very real and down to earth. She was a writer and editor who shared her passion for food and travel. As we are in the month of February, a month of Mondays, I decided to catch up with her on her successes and failures. A month of Mondays with Adriana Peniche. So Adriana, you've recently written a new post on your blog, but for me, it's about the other side of things, about the mistakes you've made. Can you tell us about those mistakes? I've been blogging since 2007. In those days I made many mistakes but I learned a lot. I guess all of us make mistakes. In fact, when I look back, I find that I'm still learning things. It makes me feel like I have a lot to learn

FoxO1 regulates CD95/Fas signaling pathway and CD95-mediated apoptosis via the regulation of c-FLIP. The Forkhead Box O1 (FoxO1) transcription factor is involved in the regulation of cell survival. In this study, we found that CD95 (Fas)-mediated apoptosis is under the control of FoxO1. The inhibition of FoxO1 by ectopic expression of a constitutively active FoxO1 mutant enhanced the CD95-mediated apoptosis and the ratio of CD95 to FADD (Fas-associated protein with death domain) and to Caspase-8. The expression of full-length c-FLIP (cellular FLICE-inhibitory protein) and the cleavage of c-FLIP at the amino-terminal were both markedly reduced in CD95-expressing cells. Ectopic expression of c-FLIP was able to rescue CD95-induced cell death. These data suggest that FoxO1 negatively regulates the CD95/Fas signaling pathway and apoptosis through the modulation of c-FLIP expression.
