LinkChecker LinkChecker Description: SciTE compatible syntax highlighter and link checker for HTML, PHP, ASPX, JSP, Server Side Includes, JAVA, PCDATA, PHTML and XHTML documents. LinkChecker highlights any potentially dangerous URLs on a web page or in a batch file. It checks a web site for broken links, and sends that list to webmasters and web crawlers. The program does not remove the highlighted content from a site. You may want to use a third-party program to remove the content. This program is freeware, open source, and available in three languages (English, Czech, and Slovak). How does it work? If you open any HTML, PHP, ASPX, JSP, Server Side Includes, JAVA, PCDATA, PHTML, or XHTML document in SciTE, the program will highlight any potentially dangerous URLs in the document. If you want, you can then set up a list of excluded URLs that the program should ignore. There are two parts to this program: 1. A script that searches for links. 2. A filter that examines the results of the script and highlights any content that should be removed. Filters can exclude links, images, and text from links. They can also change the color of a link and can allow links to open in a new window or tab in your default browser. Why is LinkChecker different? LinkChecker supports the following languages: English French German Czech Slovak Supports the following HTML documents: HTML, PHP, ASPX, JSP, Server Side Includes, JAVA, PC
