Germany's economy minister has voiced concerns that Brexit could leave the country feeling "unwanted" on the global stage. Peter Altmaier told the "Welt am Sonntag" newspaper that the UK leaving the EU was "very, very dangerous" and that "it's now not that easy to live with this" as a neighbour. He added that Germany and Britain would be "the poorest" of any 27 EU countries if the UK became its most important trade partner. The comments by Altmaier - a member of Chancellor Angela Merkel's party - will be seen as particularly significant given that he is Germany's minister for the economy. Merkel has made it clear the country's interests are paramount and that it will not be weakened as a result of the UK leaving the union.

Altmaier told the newspaper that Britain's decision to leave the EU "cannot be reversed". He said: "We would have to think about whether this really can be undone or whether some sort of solution will have to be found. "If this cannot be dealt with in a sensible way, then the consequences are clear. "If one doesn't want that the relationship will lead to a break-up of the European Union, then it's very, very dangerous and very unfortunate. I'm working on a project with version 4.2 and I'm running across a problem that I thought I had figured out by myself, but now I find out that I don't know how Ext JS 4 works. The problem is that I have a component in an Ext JS 4 project that doesn't get a store in the component itself. Ext JS has a way to store its stores in component properties. However, there's no default store in the project and so I am trying to add a store to the project. I add it as: Ext.define('Team.view.Projects.AddProject', { extend: 'Ext.window.Window', alias: 'widget.projectadd', autoShow: true, title: 'Project Add', xtype: 'projectadd', layout: 'fit', items: [ { xtype: 'formpanel', defaults: { labelWidth: 40, labelAlign: 'right',
