customer support A Web content management system (WCMS) is a web application that allows you to manage, edit and maintain your website content. These services are useful to create, develop, maintain and publish a website, as well as to organize, update and edit it. Web CMSs range in size from a simple HTML editor to applications which include extensive editing and design capabilities. These applications can be used to create static websites as well as dynamic content-rich websites. The WCMS are usually a set of tools and a database which is either embedded in the application, or stored in the host computer system. A Web CMS is frequently used to build dynamic websites. Typical features of a web content management system Features which are common to all web CMS's are the following: - Web content: users of the CMS can view, modify and add content, e.g. pages and images, directly on the application. The CMS may have built-in tools or plug-ins to allow the user to enter content. - Security: the CMS application is protected against unauthorized access and damage. - Plug-ins: the web CMS offers third-party plug-ins that can be used to extend the capabilities of the application. - Extensions: the web CMS can be extended by the users through the addition of modules. - Data backup: the CMS application is backed up automatically on a regular basis. - Publishing: the CMS can be used to publish a website and its content automatically.
