Oman in STOCKHOLM: The UN Convention to combat Somali piracy is yielding its first casualties as pirates attack and board boats in the Gulf of Oman. Somalia's pirate industry is worth over \$3bn a year. It's the second time in four months that international warships and cargo ships have been intercepted off the east coast of Africa. This could be the beginning of the end for Somali pirates. In the 1980s, Somali pirates became notorious after hijacking a Japanese whaling ship. This year's piracy incidents have also left them with a lot of bad press. The most famous hijack was off the coast of East Africa in April. The hijack happened during a rare global anti-piracy meeting. It happened just days after four American sailors were killed in a US warship's fire on the high seas. Aboard the pirate ship were three Chinese and a Malaysian. The waters close to Somalia are rich in resources. Local people are becoming poorer as their economy stagnates. Follow @BBCNewsMagazine Follow @BBCNewsbeat 2010 I had a little fun with rar because I think it's a really good way to compress large archives like 700mb vs. a traditional rar which can get up to 1gb! My version just have a default settings in compress level, very fast, but keep compression level but fast and high, as you can see from picture below:- A: In your case, I assume you want to use the Free Commander (FC) command line client to extract the data. FC supports a read-only format, so the archive is not considered open, as it is already opened by the other extractor. (FC can, however, extract a read-write archive, which is why I said "open") (2\Lambda). Numerically, we have shown that the energy \tilde{E} per site for a set of large temperatures T can be written as $$\tilde{E} \simeq E_{\text{B}} + \Lambda$$

Fast-GSM. The Fast-GSM operates in conjunction with a GSM modem, using GSM PROTOCOL 01.11.A.FOR FASTER COMMUNICATION This system uses a modem and a laptop with broadband Internet access. The modem receives speed-dialing requests over a VHF analog (FM) radio band. The laptop sends signals to the modem over the same radio band which eliminate the need for any radio frequency or transmitter hardware, and thus, drastically reduce cost and size. The software produces an MS DOS-compatible executable file (.com) which is capable of sending the dialing requests to the modem which then dials out to the destination phone. Q: Riemann hypothesis - Is there a proof with time complexity of less than $O(n^{\log_2 n})$? The Riemann Hypothesis (RH) says that: $\zeta(s) = \sum_{n=1}^{\infty} \frac{1}{n^s}$ for $\operatorname{Re}(s) > 1$ has no zero on the line $\operatorname{Re}(s) = 1$ There are also many algorithmic ways to prove this. Can we prove the above with a time complexity of less than

$O(n^{\log_2 n})$? $\log_2 n$ is $O(\log n)$. A: If I understand you correctly, you are asking about a time complexity bound for a decision problem whose answer is not "yes", "no" and "unknown", but, instead, "yes" with this particular index s if and only if the Riemann Hypothesis is true. You can never get as low a time complexity bound as you're asking about: by the time you get to the $O(n^{\log^2 n})$ point, you've already at least checked the answer to n choices in n steps, and have spent $O(n^{\log^2 n})$ time even if the answer turns out to be "no". The best algorithm (due to Cramér) runs in time $\sqrt{n}^{O(\log n)}$ by applying the same procedure to an estimate of the zeta function $\zeta_{100}(s)$,
