I have a few GPS tagged images I want removed before I hand them over to a friend. At first I got a message saying that it was going to take a while to remove the location on the images. After waiting what seemed like days, the program finally completed and informed me that everything was removed. I wasn't able to locate the photos in the directory, so I ran the find command to locate all images, and everything came up as OK. There was no issue with the file integrity. Overall, I was happy with the results.
