QFileDialog unresolved external symbol I am getting an unresolved external symbol error at the line: if (_rpclib_fileOpen(pOut, &g_p_fdOut, name2) == NO_ERROR) When I trace it in VS 2010, I get the following: error LNK2001: unresolved external symbol "public: __thiscall rpclib::_RpClibFileData::_RpClibFileData(void)"

(??0_RpClibFileData@@QAE@XZ)

This is the _RpClibFileData definition:

```
struct _RpClibFileData { FILE* handle; QString name; }; and _RpClibFileData is declared in rpclib.h (not #included) and its construct is: template _RpClibFileDat

---

```
a::_RpClibFileData(void) { handle = NULL; name =
QString::fromLocal8Bit(""); } How do
I fix this? A: Your definition is good.
_RpClibFileData::_RpClibFileData() is declared in rpclib.h: ... rpclib_FileData fileData; ... If you've included rpclib.h in a header, you're going to get the definition if you're trying to use it from the header itself. You should get the errors when you build the project, after all that would be the case if you were to try to use your own (non-existent) definitions, but from.cpp files included in the build you can just go ahead and use the definitions in rpclib. BTW, don't rely on macros.
Have another #define like #ifdef V2 and #define V1 (for VC7 and up) and use different #includes to make sure you use a single version if both macros are defined.
